Panic rooms are pretty expensive, but since they are mostly marketed to the very wealthy, that shouldn't come as a surprise. Construction of a high-end panic room typically starts at $50,000 and can reach beyond $500,000, depending on amenities. On the low end, converting a closet or extra room into a panic room usually starts around $3,000.

When you hear the words "panic room," you might think of the 2002 flick in which Jodie Foster hides in a fortified room in a Manhattan town house. Foster's character has a bevy of surveillance equipment and supplies, but thieves terrorize her and attack the room until she is forced to come out and confront them.

"Is this his best yet?...Full of sinister menace and propulsive pace with twisty plotting" Lee Child WHAT REALLY LIES WITHIN? High on a Cornish cliff sits a vast uninhabited mansion. Uninhabited except for Blake, a young woman of mysterious background, currently acting as housesitter. The house has a panic room. Cunningly concealed, steel lined, impregnable - and apparently closed from within. Even Blake doesn't know it's there. She's too busy being on the run from life, from a story she thinks she's escaped. But her remote existence is going to be threatened when people come looking for the house's owner, rogue pharma entrepreneur, Jack Harkness. Soon people with questionable motives will be asking Blake the sort of questions she can't - or won't - want to answer. WILL THE PANIC ROOM EVER GIVE UP ITS SECRETS?

It's dark outside, and thoughts of work and meetings and money buzz through your brain. You turn on your back as you suddenly feel the breath start to leave your lungs. Breaking into a cold sweat, you struggle to understand what's going on. Your mind is fuzzy as you take another labored breath. Your heart thumps like a train crashing through your room. You're certain that you won't make it to tomorrow, let alone the next five minutes. The walls are closing in. You're in the Panic Room. We never know when panic and anxiety will grip us--but there is a way out. You don't have to live this way anymore. Troy Maxwell shares his personal experience in an intimate story of tragedy and growth as he walks you through how to make it out if the Panic Room.

Based on David Koepp's screenplay of the upcoming film, starring Jodie Foster, scheduled for release in January 2002, this novelization tells the story of divorcee Meg Altman, who moves with her young daughter from Connecticut to Manhattan. Her home's previous owner created a "panic room"--an impregnable inner fortress of steel and video monitors. When three prowlers break in, Meg and her daughter seek sanctuary in the panic room. But then their nightmare begins.

The death of a popular congressman turns into a disaster when Gerri becomes trapped with a handful of others in the politician's panic room, forcing her to leave the majority of the murder investigation to her friends. Can Kinsey and Ray figure out who killed the congressman without any evidence, or will Gerri's close quarters caging lead to the murderer? Welcome to The Nightshade Case, a series of twenty-one murder mysteries. Please note: this episodic series is based on the television show model, with screenwriting notations and shorter formats. There will be a complete mystery each release, with cliffhangers only occurring in the full season story line.

"One of my favorite books of the year." —Lee Child —Cancel all your plans and call in sick; once you start reading, you'll be caught in your own escape room—the only key to freedom is turning the last page! —Kirkus Reviews (starred) "A sleek, well-crafted ride." —The New York Times In Megan Goldin's unforgettable debut, The Escape Room, four young Wall Street rising stars discover the price of ambition when an escape room challenge turns into a lethal game of revenge. Welcome to the escape room. Your goal is simple. Get out alive. In the lucrative world of finance, Vincent, Jules, Sylvie, and Sam are at the top of their game. They've mastered the art of the deal and celebrate their success in style—but a life of extreme luxury always comes at a cost. Invited to participate in an escape room challenge as a team-building exercise, the ferociously competitive co-workers crowd into the elevator of a high-rise building, eager to prove themselves. But when the lights go off and the doors stay shut, it quickly becomes clear that this is no ordinary competition: they're caught in a dangerous game of survival. Trapped in the dark, the colleagues must put aside their bitter rivalries and work together to solve cryptic clues to break free. But as the game begins to reveal the team's darkest secrets, they realize there's a price to be paid for the terrible deeds they committed in their ruthless climb up the corporate ladder. As tempers fray, and the clues turn deadly, they must solve one final chilling puzzle: which one of them will kill in order to survive?

Fear is a common part of our lives. Some of us are afraid of heights, or doctors, or dogs. These fears we manage. But there are greater fears as well - fear of failure, fear of rejection, loneliness, death, and more. These fears can cripple us in our lives and send us to a panic room of the mind; a place of perceived safety. But just as Jesus called to Peter from the safety of the boat, he calls to us in our daily lives as well. He calls us to a place of greater faith and trust, a place beyond the prison of the panic room - a place where we live and breathe beyond the walls of fear.

The criminals know where she is, and what they require the most in the house is in that very room.

Like many Latter-day Saints in California, Michael and his wife, Kate, are asked to support Proposition 8. Michael has no problem with this request—same-sex marriage makes no sense to him. But after Proposition 8 prevails at the ballot box, same-sex marriage activists explode in anger. They target the list of Proposition 8 donors and ramp up their campaign to demonize all opposition, leaving Michael and Kate to suffer the consequences. (Also available in the short story collection "The Wrong Sort of Stories".)

Trapped in their New York brownstone's panic room, a hidden chamber built as a sanctuary in the event of break-ins, newly divorced Meg Altman (Jodie Foster) and her young daughter Sarah (Kristen Stewart) play a deadly game of cat-and-mouse with three intruders - Burnham (Forest Whitaker), Raoul (Dwight Yoakam) and Junior (Jared Leto) - during a brutal home invasion. But the room itself is the focal point because what the intruders really want is inside it.
